*Red Flags*

How can you tell if a person may be abusive?

Here are some red flags to watch for. Independently, these may not be strong indicators. However, when several of these occur in combination, they are more predictive that the relationship will become abusive in the future. If you feel worried about any of these things in your relationship call the hotline at 520-795-4266 or 888-428-0101.

Controlling behaviors: Telling partner how to style hair, what to wear, or always deciding where to go/what to do on dates; accompanying partner to appointments; getting inappropriately angry if partner is late or unavailable

Cruelty to animals: Punishing animals harshly and being insensitive to their suffering

Cruelty to children: Having unrealistic expectations of children's capabilities; bullying or teasing children until they cry

Disrespect: Speaking disrespectfully to partner; being rude to waiters and waitresses; expressing racist or sexist attitudes; being outwardly disrespectful to others of different social background, religion, race or disability

Double-standards: Having different set of rules and expectations for partner and self

History of violent behavior: Having a history of violence in past relationships is predictive of violence in future relationships. Many, but not all abusers, have been victims of domestic abuse in their families when growing up

Isolation: Monopolizing partner's time; sabotaging partner's relationships with family and friends; calling or texting frequently to check up on partner

Impulsivity and mood swings: Not thinking through the consequences of actions; having explosive mood swings; acting like "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"; ranting and raving over minor things

Jealousy: Demonstrating excessive possessiveness; expressing ownership of partner; dropping by unexpectedly; having friends "keep an eye" on partner; accusing partner of flirting with others; making excuses for jealous behavior by saying it is out of love

Minimization and blaming: Avoiding taking responsibility for actions; blaming others for problems and feelings; denying or minimizing past history of abuse or violence

Quick involvement: Pushing a partner to commit to a serious relationship very quickly; wanting partner to move in, get married, or have children in a short period of time or before they are ready

Threats of violence: Saying things like "I'll kill myself if you leave me"; dismissing their threats or actions with comments like "I was just joking" or "I really didn't mean it"

Unrealistic expectations: Expecting partner to be perfect and meet all of their needs; expecting partner to conform to rigid gender roles; demanding that their needs to come before partner's needs

Use of force or coercion during sex: Guilt-tripping partner into having sex; showing little concern over whether partner wants or does not want sex
